How Do we show we care?

- Christians and Jews believe they are created by a loving God who cares for them.
- Christians and Jews believe that everything in the created world reminds them of God's love and care and they should show the same love and care to the world around them. Jews remember this at the festival of Tu B'shevat when trees are planted or money donated towards tree planting.
- Christians try to follow Jesus' teaching, that they should love one another the way Jesus loves them. They believe that they should love and care for people they don't like or they don't know, not just their friends and family.
